HOW A BONBON IS MADE

From bean to bonbon

We start with the cacao bean and see it all the way to the finished piece. It is the long way to make chocolate, and it lets us decide how every piece in the box tastes.

A bonbon is made in stages. Our chocolatiers paint the mold, cast a thin shell, fill it, let the center set and seal it with chocolate. Then each piece is tapped out of the mold, checked and boxed by hand.

1

The shell

Color goes into the mold first. Then tempered chocolate is poured in and turned out, leaving a thin, crisp shell.

2

The center

Ganache, caramel or gianduja goes inside. Cut pieces like these are poured as a slab, cut into squares and finished with sea salt.

3

The shine

When the center has set, a chocolate cap seals it. Well-tempered chocolate comes out of the mold glossy and snaps clean.

See our bonbon collections starting on page 13, and pick your own nine on page 14.

OUR TEAM

Making chocolate is a team sport

That is how we say it around here. Our chocolatiers temper, paint, fill, cut and pack every piece in this catalog, and they lead the tastings and classes in our factory too.

Melanie Bopp, our Chief of Chocolate Operations (the COCO, for short), trained with acclaimed chocolatier Melissa Coppel in Las Vegas. You can see that training in every hand-painted shell.

Come by and say hello. The tasting room looks right onto the factory floor, so you can watch them work.

Packing orders by hand.

FROM OUR KITCHEN

Pecans, caramel and patience

Pecans show up all through this catalog: in our pecan brittle (page 36), our caramel pecan clusters (page 28), our goat milk caramels (page 23) and our fudge with Texas pecans (page 30).

Our caramels are cooked here, cut by hand and finished with sea salt, pecans or a coat of chocolate. Cut one in half and you see why people come back for them: a soft, slow, golden center.

AT HOME

Setting out chocolate for a crowd

A few small habits make a box of chocolates taste better, whether it is two of you by the fire or a full house on Christmas Eve.

01 Keep it cool, not cold
Store chocolate somewhere cool, dry and dark. The fridge can dull the shine.

02 Serve it at room temperature
Cold chocolate tastes muted. Give it time to warm up before guests arrive.

03 Go from light to dark
Taste white and milk chocolate before dark, and mild flavors before bold ones.

04 Let it melt
Hold a piece on your tongue for a moment before you chew. You taste more that way.

05 Pour something warm
Coffee, tea and our drinking chocolate (page 32) all sit well beside a plate of bonbons.

06 Bonbons first
Soft ganache centers are best soon. Bars, toffee and brittle keep longer.

Popcorn, Brittle & Pecans

Caramel popcorn, peanut and pecan brittle, and roasted Texas pecans, sweet, salty or spicy.

Hand-stretched peanut brittle, a big piece full of whole Spanish peanuts.

Homemade Peanut Brittle — $16

8 oz

We make our peanut brittle the way Texans do, with Spanish peanuts and a traditional recipe from Dan's childhood. It is stretched by hand in small batches, so every bag is full of crunch. Each bag holds 8 ounces.

Our black gift box with a window, holding 8 oz of cinnamon sugar pecans.

Cinnamon Roasted Pecans — $16

8 oz

Texas Crispy Pecans, made from premium pecan halves grown in San Saba, Texas. We glaze them with our own process, then roast them at a low temperature for a long time. They come out crispy, with just the right amount of cinnamon sweetness.

Spicy caramel popcorn with roasted peanuts mixed in, every piece coated in our cumin and chili caramel.

Spicy South Texas Caramel Popcorn $18

9 oz bag · Contains tree nuts, peanuts, milk, soy

We cook a house-made caramel with the flavors of South Texas, cumin and chili, then fold in popcorn, peanuts, cashews and pecans. Made in small batches at our factory in the Texas Hill Country, it brings a gentle warmth under every sweet, crackling handful.

Our 9 oz black bag with a gold label and a window showing the caramel popcorn.

Hill Country Caramel Popcorn $18

9 oz

Our classic caramel popcorn, made by hand in a copper kettle in small batches and mixed with peanuts, cashews and pecans. Sweet, crunchy and easy to share, it comes in a 9 oz bag for snacking at home or setting out for friends.

Our black 8 oz bag with a clear window and a yellow label, full of pecan brittle.

Pecan Brittle $16

8 oz

Old-fashioned brittle made with pecans we buy straight from farmers in San Saba, Texas. We stretch it by hand in our Fredericksburg factory, which keeps every piece crispy. It comes in an 8 ounce bag.

A handful of our Texas Crispy Pecans, whole halves coated in our sweet and salty glaze.

Roasted Salted Pecans $16

8 oz

Our Texas Crispy Pecans start as premium halves grown in San Saba, Texas, some of the best in the state. We coat them with our signature glazing process, then roast them low and slow for a long time. The result is a crisp pecan with just the right sweet and salty crunch.

Our black gift box of spicy roasted pecans, with a window showing the halves inside.

Spicy Roasted Pecans $16

8 oz

Texas Crispy Pecans, made from premium halves grown in San Saba, Texas. We give them our signature glaze, then roast them at a low temperature for a long time, until they turn crispy with just the right amount of spice. An 8 oz box.

A black zip pouch with a clear window showing the brittle, and our gold label on front.

Jalapeño Peanut Brittle $16

Our time-tested peanut brittle, turned up a notch. We fold in candied jalapeños from Lafitte's in Louisiana, so real green pepper peeks through golden, glassy candy. Hand-pulled thin enough to shatter cleanly, it brings a sweet heat that builds slowly without crowding out the buttery peanut.

Popcorn coated in our caramel made with hot honey and cayenne.

Hot Honey Popcorn $18

This one packs more heat than our traditional South Texas style. We work hot honey and cayenne into our signature caramel, so every crunchy kernel brings sweetness first and a slow, warm burn after. Keep a bowl out and watch it disappear.

Our black 8 oz bag with a clear window and our gold label, filled with brittle.

Homemade Peanut Brittle $16

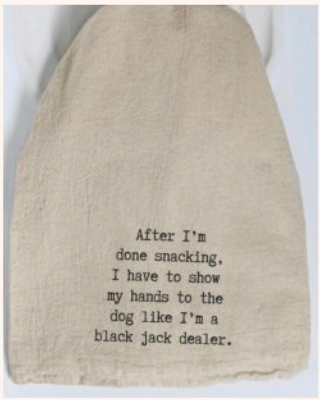

We make our peanut brittle the way Texans do, with Spanish peanuts and a traditional recipe from Dan's childhood.
